FROM HEADQUARTERS.

An Address to the Democracy of Kentucky, Urging a More Perfect Organization.

"Office of the Democratic State Central Committee, Louisville, Aug. 21.—President Committees: On the 7th inst. the Democratic State Central Committee adopted the following resolution, viz:

Resolved, That the election of precinct committees be by mass convention at 2 o'clock p. m., except in the cities of Newport and Covington, where the same shall be at 8 p. m. The mass conventions shall be held at the present voting places in said precincts. There should be notice of said meetings published in a newspaper having general circulation in or near said precincts at least three days before said conventions, or by posters at public places near voting places.

"The election of precinct committees in the city of Louisville shall be governed by such regulation as the State Central Committee may hereafter prescribe. The various municipal executive committees shall be elected at such time and in such manner, from time to time, as the Central Committee shall prescribe.

"From the foregoing you will observe that the Democrats of each precinct are made responsible for the selection of a faithful committeeman to represent them in their respective county committees.

"Manner of Choosing Precinct Committees: You are requested, therefore, to assemble promptly at 2 o'clock p. m. on the 6th day of September next, at your respective voting precincts, and elect a Chairman and Secretary, and when thus organized, elect by fair count, a sound Democrat as precinct committeeman. It will be the duty of such Chairman and Secretary to immediately advise the undersigned, by letter, of said organization and election.

"Who to Elect: It is very important to the interests of the party throughout the State, and to the interests of every county, that you elect reputable, staunch, uncompromising Democrats; men faithful to their party and true to their business and personal obligations. It is important that you should not elect any one who holds political office, because you want disinterested committees; but you are expected to choose men who will understand that their duties are to a certain extent judicial, and that it is unworthy and dishonorable to let the services of the committee to promote the interests of rival candidates in the party.

"You will bear in mind that you are called upon to elect one committeeman for each voting place (not Magisterial district), and it is the voting precinct and for the voting precinct that you are to elect.

"The precinct committeemen thus chosen are ordered to assemble themselves together at their respective county courts (not by proxy, but in person) on Saturday, the 13th of September, at 2 o'clock p. m., and elect from their number a temporary Chairman and Secretary, and proceed then to elect a permanent Chairman of the county committee and a permanent Secretary of said committee. The temporary Chairman and Secretary, as above intimated, are requested, by the undersigned, to report to the undersigned the result of said organization, and to send at the same time a list of each precinct committeeman throughout his county. Wherever omissions in any case occur, the Central Committee will supply by appointment.

"You will bear in mind that all Democrats, whether going under the names of 'Wheeler's,' 'Farmers' Alliance,' or under any organization whereby the general principles of Democracy are sought to be enforced, are nevertheless Democrats and are as much entitled as are Democrats belonging to any other club or organization to be represented in those Committees.

"It is the purpose of the Democratic party to encourage organization in the proper way, and these men who, either as Democratic leagues, Clubs, Wheeler's or Farmers' Alliance, unite in contending for the principles which are Democratic and essential to the interests of the common country are expected to act on a common basis within Democratic lines, in rebuking National legislation which is calculated to disturb the business and harmony of the whole country. To those organizations ever where in the State, by uniting as Democrats is due the credit of the great victory you have achieved in the recent State election, and your Central Committee come now to ask a further united effort to bring about organization which will be reputable, permanent and harmonious.

"By order of the State Central Committee.

"JOHN B. CASTLEMAN, Chairman."

Revenge.

"Why did you call for der perlice to arrest that tipsy man, cully?" asked a newsboy addressing a bootblack.

Mothers, don't let your children suffer with ill health. Try Dr. Bull's Worm Destroyer—dainty candy lozenges. It will do them no harm and may be just the remedy they need.

A DUTY TO YOURSELF.

It is surprising that people will use a common, ordinary pill when they can secure a valuable English one for the same money. Dr. Acker's English pills are a positive cure for sick headache and all liver troubles. They are small, sweet, easily taken, and do not gripe. H. B. GARNER, Druggist.

"Do you really think, Auntie that it is wicked to make a fashionable ball dress?"

"I did not say so. I only remarked that you were forming a very low habit."—Plunder.

PRETTY COTTON TOWNS.

Styles That Seem to Have Taken the Country by Storm.

Cotton dresses of percale, with spots or stripes of color on white, or china figures and stripes on china blue, ecru or cream grounds, are made up in the prevailing simple fashions, with a belted waist, full sleeves and a straight skirt that may have a deep Spanish flounce in front and the sides, or full, or fullness, is gathered on two thick cords all around, just below the belt.

The belted bodice is the old-fashioned spencer waist, called also the French waist, with the only seams those under the arms and on the shoulders, the fullness gathered at the waist line in front and back, and plain at the top, though the present fancy is for adding fullness at the neck in front and back alike.

These waists are without lining, but should be strengthened under the arms by being faced with strong white muslin from the tips of the shoulders down to the waist line. The fronts are hemmed and fastened by small white pearl buttons set very near together. A turned-over collar and cuffs of open embroidery are sufficient trimming. Formerly such waists were permanently gathered to a belt, but for fear of shrinkage in these days of very long waists they are now cut to extend four or five inches below the belt or waist line, and are very slightly gathered on a belt facing of strong muslin, which can be removed and set on lower down if the bodice shrinks when laundered. For very slight figures the bodice can be gathered full in the neck and on the shoulders, then drawn into yoke shape by three or four cords in front and back; or else the back can be made plain, and the fronts drawn by ribbons passed through two or three holes, extending up halfway between the knees and waist, then joined to a top piece only half as full, which is neatly gathered to the belt. The top of the bodice may have one or two standing ruffles, or else be headed by a full four inches wide, with a ruffle at each edge an inch wide when finished, either with a hem or else of the percale doubled. Lawns are very pretty when made in this way, also dotted or sprinkled white muslins, with colored ribbons drawn through doubled ruffles as heading for the deep flounce.

An odd fancy, quite the opposite of the gowns just noted, is that of making gingham dresses in tailor fashion, with the double-breasted habit bodice and the plain habit skirt. This style is liked especially for plaid gingham, notably those of the tartan coloring, and these are made up with lining of the same throughout, and are trimmed with two rows of white pearl buttons on the front and on the back down the waist. The skirt is cut bias and stitched on the hem.—Harper's Bazar.

POVERTY IN SICILY.

The pathetic state of life in Sicily's smallest Province.

The distance from the Strento river to Palermo is about 120 miles. We traveled this distance on our excellent donkeys in four days, with the Naples correspondent of the New York Commercial Adviser, with time to spare for brief excursions from the main highway to objects of special interest. The face of the country is mountainous, save where now and then infrequent level plains intervene. The mountainous districts recall some of the sterile and forbidding heights of Spain. The plains, though exceedingly fertile, seem uninhabited.

Italy and Sicily are "sunny" enough. Cereals, fruits and flowers are almost tropical luxuriant, but how can the haggard traveler rave over the glories of pagan ruins, the massiveness of mediæval monuments, monasteries, cathedrals and fortresses, or the dazzling palaces of the nobility of to-day, when almost the entire people of the land are the serfs of a few; when the lowly comprise all but the nobility, the governing classes and ecclesiastics; and when not less than 2,500,000 souls out of Sicily's 3,500,000 inhabitants are abject slaves, ignorant and sullen as swine?

An infinite compassion fires one's heart for the hopelessness of such a people; and when interest in tremendous natural phenomena, classic regions and old remains lessens, the pitiable and pathetic side of life in such a land begins to possess and hurt you. Any land boasting no progressive farming, population masters of the soil they till, without a fairly contented peasantry possessing secure and well-defined rights in their holdings, is doomed to desertion and decay.

How Long to Cook Vegetables.

A French authority gives the following time for cooking common vegetables: Potatoes, boiled, thirty minutes; sweet potatoes, boiled, forty-six minutes; squash, boiled, twenty-five minutes; squash, baked, forty-five minutes; green peas, boiled, twenty-five to forty minutes; green corn, twenty-five to thirty minutes; string beans, boiled, sixty minutes; asparagus, fifteen to thirty minutes; spinach, one to two hours; cauliflower, one to two hours; turnips, white, forty-five to sixty minutes; turnips, yellow, one to two hours.

One Thing He Was Able to Recall.

Lawyer—(after persistent inquiry)—You say you can not recall the matter?

Witness—I can't, sir.

Lawyer—Your recollection faculty isn't very good, eh?

Witness—Possibly not, sir.

Lawyer—Is there any thing that you can recall?

Witness—I can recall another occasion on which I was questioned a great deal by a lawyer who knew very little.—The Jury.

—A resident of Albany, N. Y., was annoyed by three sparrows, and sought remedy in strychnine with which to poison them. They ate it and relished it apparently. It did not kill them, but every one of them turned snow white.

DOMESTIC CONCERNS.

—All salads should be eaten as soon as possible after the dressing is added, else they become unwholesome.

—Ice-d strawberries are especially pretty for luncheon. Dip large, ripe berries in well-beaten white of egg, then in powdered sugar, repeating the process until the icing is thick enough to set your fancy.

—Cold Lemon Pudding: One half box of gelatine soaked in four table-spoonsful of water for ten minutes; add a pint of boiling water, juice of two lemons, one cupful of sugar. Strain and set away to cool. When cold stir in the white of three well-beaten eggs. A thin boiled custard or cream may be used to pour over the pudding.—Household.

—Strawberry custard is made by putting a quart of ripe fresh sugared strawberries in a deep dish and covering them with same rich boiled custard. Just before sending them to the table spread a meringue on the top made from the white of three well-beaten eggs, and half a cup of pink pulverized sugar.—Rural New Yorker.

—The rendered lard of the market should never be used in any good household for cooking purposes. The white lard offered for sale has its whiteness mostly from an admixture of a solution of borax, potash or soda, which is harmless if the lard is used for hair-grease, but for cooking the "stuff" is unfit, because the borax, potash or soda saponifies the lard and gives it, besides whiteness, the terrible soapy taste and flavor.

—Bananas and Jelly: Make a mold of lemon jelly, cut bananas in slices and sides of the mold with them; pour the jelly slowly, so that the slices do not float, place the mold in ice water until hard; reserve a cupful of the jelly, and just before serving break it up lightly with the white of an egg beaten stiff, and scatter it over the top, serve with powdered sugar and cream, strawberries can be used in place of the bananas and will be found delicious.—Boston Herald.

—Calf's Tongue, Tomato Sauce: Take four fresh calf's tongues; soak in warm water for an hour; drain and parboil for ten minutes; cool, pare and scrape the white skin off, and wash well; dilute in a stew-pan an ounce of flour with two quarts of water; set this to boil and add the tongues, salt, a wine-glass of vinegar, a bunch of parsley and an onion with three cloves in it, cover and cook slowly for about an hour and a half; drain on a cloth, split in two, dish up, pour a tomato sauce over, and serve.—Good Housekeeping.

—Tender chickens cooked in the following way are as good as if they were broiled: Open them in the back, season and put them in a baking-pan, with a little water in it. Turn another pan over it, and bake for an hour and a half or two hours, according to the size. If they are not brown enough when nearly done take off the upper pan. Cut off the neck before putting in the oven, and boil it along with the giblets in half a pint of water. Take the bones out of the neck; cut that, the gizzard and heart into fine pieces. Mash the liver with a spoon, and add them all, with the water in which they were boiled, to the gravy.

FAMILY SCRAP BASKET.

Useful and Interesting Bits of Household Fact and Fancy.

If carpets are faded and dull have them wiped with a wet cloth, taken from warm water containing a pint of ox-gall to every gallon of water.

To take grease stains from leather apply benzine, and then rub over with whited white of an egg, and to remove them from marble make a paste of fuller's earth and benzine, lay it on thickly, leave it for twelve hours, and then wash off with warm water.

When you have a surplus of asparagus, the best known plan to keep it in good condition is to place the thick end in water or bury half length in sand.

Before any garment is wetted in the wash, it should be thoroughly examined to see if there are any spots or stains which need special treatment. All stains made by acids should be treated with some alkaline preparation, while almost all fruit stains will readily yield to boiling water, which should be poured through them to prevent the stain appearing as it might do if they were dipped into the water.

New papering and painting should generally be done in the fall, and the house kept well lighted, or the test white paint will turn yellow, and fancy colors will lose their brightness.

Milk will readily remove ink stains on linen, if used before the ink is dry; otherwise the best thing is oxalic acid, applied as for fruit stains. Another practical method is to spread the stained part over a plate and rub it with some butter and salt till the stains disappear, then wash with soap and water. Sour buttermilk removes mildew and benzine, followed by a hot iron and blotting paper, with a wash in warm soap and water, causes paint to disappear.

Letting certainly has a sedative action on the nervous system, and can be usefully employed in insomnia.

According to an English barber frequent washings of the head will produce baldness. Another important agent in causing baldness is the use of fancy toilet soaps in shampooing the head. A good brush and comb are sufficient to keep the head clean.

When buttons come off don't hunt an old shoe and use the shabby buttons, but invest five cents in a card of shining black buttons, and have them ready for emergencies. One old button spoils the style of a shoe.

In preparing clothes for the wash, it is well to remember that any articles dried by water or perspiration should be dried before being thrown into the general receptacle for soiled clothing, particularly during summer weather, as there is always the danger that such articles will become mildewed.

To keep steel and all Oriental embroderies from tarnishing, fill a small bag with camphor-gum, and hang in the larger bag. If left uncovered it stains whatever it comes in contact with.

—The Siamese are said to be in great request among Siamese merchants as cashiers in their counting-houses.

The cashier here meditatively puts into his mouth each coin presented to him, in business payments, and tests it with grave deliberation. His method of testing is regarded in commercial circles as infallible; and, as a matter of fact, his decision is uniformly accepted by all parties interested in the transaction.

Happy Hoosiers.

Wm. Timmons, postmaster at Idaville, Ind., writes: "Electric Bitters has done more for me than all other medicines combined, for that bad feeling arising from Kidney and Liver trouble." John Leslie, farmer and stockman of same place, says: "Find Electric Bitters to be the best Kidney and Liver medicine, made me feel like a new man." J. W. Gardner, hardware merchant, same place, says: "Electric Bitters is just the thing for a man who is all run down and don't care whether he lives or dies; he found new strength, good appetite and felt just like he had a new lease on life. Only 50c. a bottle at H. B. Garner's City Pharmacy.

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtin, of Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefited from first dose. She continued its use and after taking ten bottles, found herself sound and well, now does her own housework and is as well as she ever was.—Free trial bottles of the Great Discovery at H. B. Garner's Pharmacy, large bottles 50c. and $1.00.

THE DUELIST BOUGHT OFF.

How the Honor of a Scrupulous Frenchman Was Satisfied.

The French craze for duelling reached during the time of the restoration its most extravagant development. Mme. de Bassonville gives a striking example of this frenzy in her memoirs. The royal body-guard at that time was composed for the most part of arrogant aristocrats, and was by no means a favorite corps. The popular wit lost no opportunity of ridiculing the objects of its antipathy. One evening at a ball in the opera-house the Viscount Strandie, an officer of the guard, was talking with a friend, when suddenly an unknown man came up and boxed the Viscount's ears. The result was naturally a tremendous sensation.

The stranger bowed, passed on and said he had made a mistake in the person, but the apology was not considered sufficient to prevent a duel. The aggressor was an American, and on the field of combat he received a sword thrust through the arm. The Viscount was still dissatisfied and a fortnight later he again challenged his adversary, who, in the meantime, had recovered from his injury, and this time gave him a dangerous wound in the breast. The Yankee recovered a second time and promptly took ship for his home in Louisiana.

In the meantime the local papers of the French capital teemed with jests and sarcasms. It was said that the people who were killed in duels by the officers of the body-guard always turned up afterward in excellent health, etc., etc. This determined Strandie to follow his opponent to Louisiana. In New Orleans he presented himself before his foe and declared, with great frankness, that he must kill him. The Southerner asked if the nobleman's hatred was not yet satisfied.

"I don't hate you at all, my dear sir," replied the Frenchman, politely, "but I owe it to my military position to take your life."

"Then resign!" promptly suggested the Louisianaian.

"But I have no property,"

"Oh! is that what troubles you?" said the American, overjoyed. "Then I have a way to help us both. I have a pretty daughter; marry her and I'll give you 1,000,000 francs as dowry."

The Viscount found the lady charming, fell in love with her and married a fortune, which permitted him to give up his military career and spare the life of his father-in-law.—Exchange.

"I'm all wrapped up in my husband; I really live in him."

"I see. How do you like living in a flat?"—Plunder.

Fame.

Fame and good reputation consists in doing the right thing in the right way at the right time. Generals are famous who led the way to victory. Orators are famous who touched the heart of the people. Smith's Tonic Syrup is famous because it has ever accomplished correct results. Used in the right way at the right time it invariably does the right thing. It never makes a failure. It never brings disappointment. It was invented by the eminent Dr. J. C. Bull, of Louisville, Ky., as a substitute for quinine. It does its work even better than was expected. It has all the good qualities of quinine and none of its evil tendencies. It cures chills and fever, colds, influenza, in grippe, etc., even when quinine fails. It is pleasant to take, and children like it. It builds up a broken-down constitution and fortifies it against the insidious attacks of malarial influences.

BROCKMAN LAYWELL,
Hopkinsville, Ky.

—A curious case was lately decided by a Berlin court. A well-to-do lady refused to pay a painter for a picture of herself and three daughters, on the plea that the likeness was not good. The picture of the ladies was brought into court by the plaintiff, and the judges decided that in order to find whether the likeness was good or bad the defendants should appear in the rich evening dresses they wore in the picture. This was arranged, and the result was that, overcome by the beauty and splendor of the four fair dames, the case was decided in their favor.

THE H. & C. RAILROAD.

This Road the Only Hope of Hopkinsville.

Paper Roads no Longer to be Looked on with Patience.

We Can Build and Own Our Own Road.

Six long months have elapsed since the Ohio Valley Railroad gave it out that a third proposition would be made to the people of Hopkinsville "in a few days."

Days have lengthened into weeks and weeks into months, until the heart has been made sick at the delay and the long season of unbroken inactivity. Nothing has been done and the time has come for Hopkinsville to conclude that nothing is going to be done by the O. V. road. Another year is fast slipping away, making the fourth year we have lived upon the illusive hopes held out to us by this company.

The KENTUCKIAN is candid enough to say now that it has lost faith in the coquette O. V. and is tired of having the feelings of Hopkinsville trifled with by this heartless and feeble flirt. It now proposes to pay no further attention to the O. V., nor to any other road unable to carry out its promises, but to hereafter advocate the building of a competitive line by the exertions of our own people.

A mother bird left her young in a field of ripened grain and directed them to pay particular attention to everything they heard.

The farmer came, looked at the grain and told his son to ask in all of the neighbors to help cut it on the morrow. The frightened birds reported what they had heard, but the mother again left, after giving similar instructions, on the next day. The farmer and his son came forth, but the neighbors came not to assist. Then the owner said to his son, "Go and tell all of our kindred to come to-morrow and help us cut our crop. Surely they will aid us." "They will not come," the old bird said, "but listen closely to what you hear to-day," and again she left on the following morn. She returned this time at noon and found the young birds in a panic. "The farmer came with his son but none of their relations were here," they said, "and the old man told his son to sharpen up the blades and get everything in readiness and they would cut the field themselves on the following day." "Then indeed must we get a move on us," said the old bird, "for when a man resolves to do a thing himself, it is pretty apt to be done."

This fable illustrates the point. We must no longer look to our neighbors nor even to our relatives to build a railroad for us. If we are to have the long desired outlet we must build it ourselves. The charter is ready, the people are willing, the route to Princeton and Eddyville is an easy one and the road can be built at comparatively little cost. The line has been surveyed, the estimates have been made for building this road and something would have been done long before this but for the repeated requests of the dilatory O. V. for further time to prepare their oft-promised proposition. The people must now look to the Hopkinsville & Cadiz road for relief and the sooner the directory can get in a shape to submit a proposition to the city to take about $125,000 worth of stock the better it will be for all. Don't wait, gentlemen, but sharpen up your blades and let's begin at once to cut the grain ourselves. Hopkinsville is abundantly able to build the greater part of this line of forty miles. The city with $1,250,000 of property is practically out of debt and her moneyed men are fully aroused to the importance of the work. Everything is ready and the times are propitious. The iron is hot and now is the time to strike.

Death of Miss Lucy Henry.

Miss Lucy Henry, oldest daughter of Mrs. Kate Henry, of near this city, died very suddenly on the night of August 28th. Her death was one of peculiar sadness and distressing circumstances. Only forty-eight hours before she took part in the wedding festivities of a young lady relative and as she appeared at the church and at the gathering that followed she was the very picture of health and womanly beauty. Possessing a magnificent physique, tall, graceful and well proportioned; with a pleasant and a happy smile for all and a disposition ever sweet and amiable, she was a universal favorite with all who knew her. Popular in society, idolized in the home circle and useful in her church duties, her loss will be severely felt. It seems hard indeed for her loved ones to reconcile themselves to her loss. Cut down on the threshold of womanhood, young in years, cultivated in mind and accomplished in all the graces that make her sex attractive, her life seemed destined to be one unbroken period of happy promise.

Her funeral services were held at the Ninth Street Presbyterian church on Saturday morning and Dr. Nourse's discourse was one peculiarly touching and appropriate. Many friends followed the remains to the grave, and a lovely and charming young lady lives only in the memory of her friends.

From Work House to Lock-up.

Henry Cross, col., who had just completed a term in the work house, was taken to Trenton Friday by Marshal Stockwell, to answer a charge of petit larceny. Cross had just been discharged from the penitentiary, where he had been sent for one year for burglary, in breaking open the store house of Mr. J. W. Arrington, merchant at Trenton, two years ago, when he landed here and immediately got into trouble.

Fatal Fracas at a Picnic.

A free fight occurred at a picnic at Bivensville, in Todd county, Saturday, of which one man was killed and two badly wounded. Ed and Tom Langston were on one side and James, Jesse and Frank Higgins on the other and the row came up over a mule trade between two of them. In the fusillade that followed the quarrel, Jim Higgins was killed, and Tom and Jesse Higgins both dangerously shot, one in the side and the other in the breast. The Langstons escaped and are still at large.

Was it Murder?

A killing occurred on Mr. Geo. W. Shaw's farm last Thursday, which was represented as accidental, but which may have been murder. Jim Bell, a hand of Bob Thompson, who is a cropper on Mr. Shaw's farm, and Jim Jesup, one of Walter Shaw's hands, were in a cabin together and a pistol was discharged. Jesup came out and claimed that he had been fooling with the weapon and had shot Bell. The latter was unable to make any statement and died in fifteen minutes. There were no witnesses to the affair. Jesup's story has been generally believed and he has not been arrested. Both were young unmarried colored men.

Ed Chappell Kills Himself.

[By Telephone.]

Edward N. Chappell, youngest son of Jno. W. Chappell, the Cadiz merchant, committed suicide last Saturday. Young Chappell was a salesman in his father's store and when he went home to dinner at noon, fixed up a mixture of laudanum and strychnine, which he retired to his room and swallowed, after locking the door. His father was absent from home, in Clarksville. Some time after dinner his sister heard groans in his room and finding the door locked called in some neighbors and the door was broken open. Chappell was found lying on the bed, suffering greatly, but conscious. He told the family what he had done and added that it was no use to try to save him, as he wanted to die and had taken enough to kill him. He stated that he had left a letter that would explain all, but the family assigns as a reason his bad health and general low spirits. It is not known what was in the letter. Deceased was 26 years of age. He was buried yesterday in the Cadiz Cemetery.
